While summer means time to get away on holiday, it also means more people will be out enjoying the short-lived spells of sunshine in Scotland, bringing more opportunities to drive up sales for the food to go & snacking markets. In this feature, we will look at how convenience retailers can develop their food to go & snacking sections in stores and match the demand that comes with the summer sun. We would welcome comments on the following:

- How would you assess the performance of food to go and snacking in Scottish c-stores? Where are the areas for growth here? What are the key trends that retailers should be aware of for the rest of the year?
- What advice do you have for c-store retailers looking to grow or introduce a food to go section in their stores? What questions should retailers be asking before investing in new technology for their stores? What regulations and rules should retailers be aware of before exploring food to go options?
- How can convenience retailers build a reputation for food to go and snacking options in their local communities to stand out from the wide range available to consumers? What approach can they take to marketing their range? What about deals or loyalty schemes?
- How can retailers ensure their range caters to consumers looking to save cash or to those looking for healthier or free-from alternatives?
- What steps can retailers take to ensure their food to go and snacking sales are thriving throughout the day? What does an effective breakfast, lunch and dinner FTG offer look like?
- Do you have any NPD or campaigns you would like to shout about?
